

Roidworm Horde

Intrinsically docile and harmless creatures, Roidworms carry out the same task as all biodegraders. Rather than converting organic waste into nutrients however, they secrete another building block of life, ammonia. Traveling in large swarms through space, the clouds these Roidworms produce are toxic to many forms of life in their highly concentrated state, poisonous to the living tissue of many creatures, and highly erosive to many types of metals. When attacked their bodies may explode violently, releasing an even more concentrated liquid form of this ammonia, causing further damage.

Locations

Roidworm Hordes can be found on asteroid tiles everywhere in the universe.
